Spr-tsmanship can be conceptualized ass an enduring and relatively stable characteristic or disposition su.. that individuals differ in the way they are generally expected to behave in sports situations. In gen : ral, sportsmanship refers to virtue:s such as fairness, self-control, courage, and persistence, and has been associated with interpersonal concepts of treating others and being treated fairly, maintaining self-control if dealing with others, and respect for both authority and opponents. Sportsmanship is. also looked at as being the way one reacts to a sport/game/player.

The four elements of sportsmariship are often shown being good form, the will to win, equity and fairness. All four elements are critical and a balance must be found among all four for true sportsmanship to be illustréted. These elements may also cause conflict, as a person may desire to win more than play in e.quity and fairness and thus resulting in a clash within the aspects of sportsmanship. This will cause problems as the person believes they are being a good sportsman, but they are defeating trie purpose of this idea as they are ignoring two key components of being sportsman like. Wh.sen athletes become too self-centred, the idea of sportsmanship is dismissed.

Today's sporting, culture, in particular the base of elite sport, places great importance on the idea of competition and winning and thus sportsmanship takes a back seat as a result. In most, if not all sports, sportsmen at the elite level make the standards on sportsmanship and no matter whether they like it or not, they are seen as leaders and role models in society.
